My daughter,
In order for one to truly imitate Christ one must pray, obey & be charitable & loving towards all their brothers & sisters. One must be humble, patient & merciful. One must love God more than their desires & give up all that is not pleasing to God. Each of you must strive to do good, & turn away from all that is evil. You must join hands & live, live in harmony with one another. Today I ask that you seek to please God. I ask that you let go of all your attachments, fears & concerns & place your trust in God. I ask dear children that you turn to God each new day so that you can truly live all that I am teaching you. Without total surrender & submission to God you will fail as you are weak without His loving guidance & assistance. God will truly strengthen you if you turn to Him & rely on his help. It is truly necessary that you each respond in order for there to be growth. So please, please turn to my son & take refuge in his most sacred heart. Turn to him & I promise you Gods love & peace will dwell, dwell in your hearts. Be confident & believe that God will not forsake you. Believe that he will truly take care of you if you trust & be dependent on Gods love for you. Now please allow God to mold you so he can fulfill his divine plan in your lives. Allow God to be your God & trust in his promise & love for each of you. Now please devote more time for prayer so you become strong soldiers for Christ. Devote more time for prayer & do all that you can to truly, truly imitate Christ. Amen
